Court Upholds SoCal Gas Appliance Limits Affecting Four Counties

A federal appeals court has cleared the way for Southern California air regulators to enforce new restrictions on the sale of certain gas-powered appliances, including commercial and industrial water heaters. The 9th Circuit Court of Appeals issued a 2-1 ruling last week upholding the limits.

The rules apply across four Los Angeles-area counties and had drawn opposition from businesses and developers who challenged the restrictions in court. With the ruling standing, the limits on gas commercial and industrial appliances can now move forward.

For contractors, the decision signals a continued push toward electrification in the region's commercial and industrial building sector. Mechanical and plumbing firms bidding new construction and retrofit work in the affected counties should anticipate specifications shifting away from gas appliances toward electric alternatives.

Developers and general contractors planning projects in the Los Angeles area may need to adjust equipment selections and coordinate with subcontractors on compliant systems, potentially affecting cost estimates and scheduling on upcoming work.

CERTIFIED "TRADE NEWSPAPER" AND "FOCUSED NEWSPAPER" — CALIFORNIA DEPT. OF GENERAL SERVICES • PUBLIC WORKS BIDS OPEN IN LOS ANGELES, ORANGE, SAN DIEGO, RIVERSIDE, SAN BERNARDINO, AND SURROUNDING COUNTIES

Cross-Border Sewage Crisis Signals Work at Imperial Beach

A persistent sewage pollution problem in Imperial Beach is disrupting local recreation, forcing a surf camp to bus children to cleaner beaches and prompting junior lifeguard programs to relocate up the coast, according to CalMatters.

The contamination stems from cross-border flows that have long fouled the waters near the San Diego County community, an issue that has drawn attention to the aging and overwhelmed wastewater infrastructure serving the region.

For contractors, the ongoing crisis underscores the scale of treatment and conveyance improvements needed along the southern coastline. Federal and state efforts to address transboundary sewage have historically involved upgrades to treatment plants and collection systems near the border.

Firms working in water and wastewater construction should watch for public funding tied to remediation of the Tijuana River watershed and related facilities, which could translate into future public-works opportunities in San Diego County.

Tutor Perini Hit With $42.4M More in Philadelphia Hotel Dispute

Los Angeles-based Tutor Perini faces an additional $42.4 million judgment tied to a contract dispute over its troubled construction of the W and Element hotels in Philadelphia, according to a recent court order.

The latest ruling adds to a $174.6 million judgment issued in April, when the company was found liable for breach of contract on the project. The combined liability now tops $217 million.

While the dispute centers on an out-of-state project, Tutor Perini is one of California's largest general contractors and a major player in public works across the state, from transit to highways. Litigation of this scale can weigh on a firm's bonding capacity and balance sheet, factors that owners and sureties weigh when awarding large California contracts.

Contractors and subcontractors that team with or compete against Tutor Perini on California public jobs should track how the ongoing legal exposure affects the company's financial standing on future bids.

Altadena Rebuild Bill Could Alter Housing Density Rules

A proposed measure at the Legislature would exempt fire-ravaged Altadena from two of California's density-boosting housing laws, aiming to give the community more control over how it rebuilds after devastating wildfires.

The bill, tied to state Senator legislation referenced as SB 1090 and touching on SB 9, would let the unincorporated Los Angeles County town rebuild on its own terms rather than under statewide density mandates. Supporters frame it as protecting neighborhood character during recovery.

Critics warn the exemption could unintentionally slow or block rebuilding for many homeowners by limiting options that the density laws otherwise allow. That tension has become a flashpoint as Altadena works toward reconstruction.

For contractors, the outcome will shape the scale and type of residential work coming out of the fire recovery in the Altadena area. Whether projects proceed as single lots or allow added units per parcel will influence bidding opportunities, permitting timelines, and the volume of rebuild work across Los Angeles County.

California High-Speed Rail Courts Private Investment Amid Funding Gaps

California's high-speed rail project linking San Francisco and Los Angeles is turning to private-sector investment to help move the long-delayed program forward, according to a report from Construction Dive.

The push for private capital comes as other privately funded high-speed rail efforts in the United States continue to struggle, raising questions about the financing model's reliability for large intercity rail work.

For California contractors, the direction of the funding conversation matters because private participation could shape the timing and scale of future construction packages along the corridor. Continued uncertainty over financing, however, leaves the pipeline of work harder to predict.

Firms tracking rail opportunities should watch how the state structures any private partnerships, as those arrangements will influence bidding conditions and the pace at which segments advance.

CTC Approves Nearly $2.5 Billion for 150-Plus Transportation Projects

The California Transportation Commission has approved funding for more than 150 new transportation projects statewide, backed by a combined investment of nearly $2.5 billion. The program targets highway safety improvements, infrastructure resiliency, and better access for people who walk, bike, and use transit.

The funding package draws from multiple sources. Roughly $547 million comes from the federal Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act, while another $736 million is provided through Senate Bill 1, the state's Road Repair and Accountability Act. The remaining $1.1 billion is funded through the State Highway Account, the general fund, and other state and federal programs.

Among the priorities are rebuilding routes damaged by extreme weather events and strengthening the resiliency of existing infrastructure. Caltrans framed the work as part of Governor Newsom's push to build more, faster.

For contractors, the approvals signal a substantial pipeline of upcoming public-works opportunities across the state, spanning highway rehabilitation, storm-damage repair, and active transportation projects. State officials said the investments are expected to create thousands of jobs.

We encourage contracting with a group of DBEs when a contract is too large for one firm to handle individually. We offer to assist you with bonding, credit, and insurance. These agreements are available for viewing in the Bidding Opportunities tab on our website, <https://www.overaa.com/subcontractors/bidding-opportunities>. By submitting a bid, Subcontractor is certifying that it has read the applicable Overaa standard agreement (either the Subcontract Agreement or Purchase Order Agreement) in full and accepts all terms without modification. Further, by submitting a bid, Subcontractor waives any rights or claims it may have to modify the terms of the Overaa standard agreement, whether through negotiations, discussions, or other means.

Overaa's standard agreements include the right for Overaa to require Subcontractors to furnish a faithful performance and labor bond, in a form and from a surety acceptable to Overaa, in the amount of 100% of the Subcontract price. Subcontractors will be required to comply with all subcontract insurance requirements, which includes providing a waiver of subrogation endorsement to their workers compensation insurance. Overaa utilizes the environmentally-friendly Textura electronic invoicing and payment system to streamline and expedite subcontractor invoicing and payment. Service fees charged by Textura for processing of electronic payments to Subcontractor shall be the responsibility of Subcontractor. Please contact our office if you would like more information.
